The MES solution from acs

Production digitized, at the next level

With an MES (Manufacturing Execution System), production companies gain greater transparency and increased possibilities to influence their shop floor. They enable a digitized production and create the basis for further optimization measures in the entire production process.

The potentials are realistic planning scenarios, saved resources, increased flexibility and process reliability, improved delivery reliability or in reduced inventories with lower risks and costs.

Our MES philosophy

✓ MES concept aligned to your system landscape. In this way we make a real and deeply integrated digitalization possible.

✓ User-friendly and efficient user interfaces. Perfectly tailored to the needs of production.

✓ Flexible and scalable solution architecture. No license costs, therefore no usage restrictions.

FiT is particularly suitable for the food industry

There are many standardized MES products. However, industrial food companies in particular are highly individualized and specialized in their activities. These success factors require a specific software concept that can serve the needs of the food industry.
With our solution concept we can contribute our part to this and draw on more than 25 years of experience in functions and solution approaches. References from champions in the food industry prove this in practice. For each customer the specific requirements are worked out individually, solutions are designed and implemented in a customer-oriented manner for each application.

Our lean approach allows a rapid implementation process and makes it possible to use implemented solutions productively in a short time. We accompany you in this process.

About us

With a team of solution architects, project managers and software engineers acs ag has been implementing complex automation and MES solutions in the process industry since 1994. Thanks to the merger with ICS Automation AG in 2018, we combine a comprehensive service along the entire automation pyramid.
We speak the language of the industry.
